The Cleveland Leader publishes a statement to the effect that ex-Mayor McKisson, of Cleveland, will support Mr. Bryan for re-election. Those who have kept in touch with the popular reform policies advocated by the ex-Mayor, do not see how he could do otherwise than support Mr. Bryan.

Mayor Jones, of Toledo, will be nominated by petition as an independent candidate for Congress and his nomination will then be endorsed by the Democrats. It is announced at Toledo that ninety per cent. of the voters who supported Mayor Jones for Governor last fall will support Mr. Bryan this year.

Mr. Bryan is being condemned by the Administration party for advocating a continuance of coinage of gold and silver dollars at the established ratio of 16 to 1. More than 50,000,000 fifty-cent 16 to 1 silver dollars have been coined by the Administration of Mr. McKinley, and no citizen has yet made the least objection to receiving them at par.

A number of Republican newspapers throughout the country, do not want Mr. Hanna to go upon the stump in the approaching campaign, but they are afraid to tell him so. If Uncle Mark is to be allowed to run things after election, what harm is there in permitting him to define his position in his own way before election?

According to a Youngstown dispatch today the managers of the Ohio Republican campaign apprehend that the campaign opening at Youngstown may fall flat, so they are "using Senator Hanna's name to create interest in the opening." Most people supposed that the name of President McKinley was sufficient to conjure with, but it seems that it is inferior to Hanna's. Can it be possible that Mark at last is receiving his due?

Editor Reynolds, of the Akron Sunday Star, does not believe the Republican editors of the country are going to make very much headway against Mr. Bryan by abusing him. In a conservative editorial yesterday Mr. Reynolds declares that Mr. Bryan's speech of acceptance raises issues which cannot be ignored by the Republican orators and newspapers this fall without inviting disaster to their campaign. We commend Mr. Reynolds's sensible warning to the Dobson paper, which hasn't contained an intelligent exposition of a national political issue since Messrs. Reynolds and Wright were ousted from its control.

A political party that puts forth a platform and then tries to explain that it doesn't mean what it says naturally invites the suspicions of the voters. Saturday's Beacon.

The anti-trust plank of the Philadelphia platform, for instance. Mr. Hanna is now in the East soliciting campaign contributions from the trusts upon the strength that the anti-trust plank "doesn't mean what it says." And in 1896 Mr. Hanna made essentially the same explanation to the bank trust and the bond holding and speculative interests when he solicited their support on the strength that his party's pledge to restore silver to coinage by an international agreement "didn't mean anything."

CONCERNING THE MONEY QUESTION.

Had a Democratic President been elected four years ago it may be questioned if he could have placed more new metallic money in circulation than has been done under the McKinley Administration, despite the Republican campaign cry of 1896 that the country did not need more money.

The Democratic party opposed the single gold standard because its tendency had been, as was so well said by Mr. McKinley in his speech at Toledo a few years ago, "to make money scarce and therefore dear," and to make all things whose value is measured by money, cheap. The Republican Administration has made the money question an issue of secondary importance in this campaign by satisfying, in part, the commercial demand for more money.

The best vindication of the claims made by the Democrats in the campaign of 1896 is that the Republican Administration, repudiating its own claims, has applied the Democratic remedy and increased the money supply.

It being conceded that the moderate increase made by the present Administration has been very beneficial to the country, it follows that a further increase of the supply, to the limit to which it can find profitable employment, will be still more beneficial.

This is the policy to which the Democratic party has pledged its candidate for the presidency, with the further requirement that he use his influence, in conjunction with congress, to reclaim to the government the right to issue paper currency direct to the people, instead of farming this vital function out to a national bank trust, which has been built up largely by the bond-issuing and national debt perpetuating policies of the Cleveland and McKinley administrations.

This is the essence of the money question as it is before the people this fall, and they should not be deceived by the Administration papers' cant about "16 to 1" and "cheap dollars," made for the purpose of obscuring other issues of more immediate importance.

SHOOTING

With Intent to Wound

Charge Against Wm. Howard, Colored.

John Forbes Is Complaining Witness.

Lively Scene at Main and Market Saturday Evening.

The Accused Man Captured In East Akron—Mayor's Court.

William ("Bud") Howard, a colored man, fired a revolver at John Forbes, Saturday night. The bullet lodged in one of Forbes' legs, and causes him much pain. The wounded man was taken to the office of Dr. Harry Todd, in the Central Office building, but the bullet could not be located. It is believed that it struck the bone, and was turned away from a straight course. The revolver was a 38-calibre bull-dog.

The shoot occurred at the corner of Market and Main sts. Howard rushed out of the Atlantic Garden, and noticing Forbes standing on the crossing, gave bystanders warning to stand aside. This done, he immediately pulled a revolver, and fired at Forbes, who with a woman and her daughter, was waiting for a street car.

After the shooting Howard ran away, but he was soon captured by Officer Eugene Murray, in East Akron. Howard claims that he did the shooting because Forbes had called him "nigger" and had repeatedly insulted him. Forbes lives at 120 Ohio st.

When arraigned in Mayor's court Monday morning, Howard pleaded not guilty. The case was continued to Wednesday morning, bond being fixed at $1,000. The charge is "shooting with intent to wound."

There was quite a number of colored men and women in Mayor's court Monday morning, to see Howard, and the women cried profusely.

DON'T FORGET

Don't forget to use Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription for that back-ache.

Don't forget that over half a million women have been cured of women's ailments by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Don't forget that "Favorite Prescription" cures diseases of women in their advanced and chronic forms; cures often when all else has failed.

Don't forget that you can consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. Tell your story frankly. All correspondence is private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Don't forget to write to Dr. Pierce today, if you are sick from diseases which afflict women.

"I write for advice February 4, 1896," writes Mrs. Lena Halstead, of Claremore, Cherokee Nat. Ind. "I was racking with pain from the back of my head down to my heels. Had hemorrhage for weeks at a time, and was unable to sit for ten minutes at a time. You answered my letter, advised me to use your valuable medicine, viz.: Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and Pleasant Pellets, also gave advice about injections, baths and diet. To my surprise, in four days from the time I began your treatment I was a well woman and have not had the back-ache since, and now I put in sixteen hours a day hard work."

A combination of Sparta brick will be used in the construction of the new South Akron school house. It will have a handsome appearance.

TWO KILLED

In a Wreck on the Wheeling and Lake Erie Road.

Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 13.—Last night at Deep Run, four miles above this city, on the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad, a southbound coal train jumped the track over a steep embankment.

Engineer Michael McGreavy of Norwalk, O., and an unknown tramp were killed.

Fireman G. E. Turner of Steubenville jumped and received two bad cuts at the neck and shoulder. His condition is serious. Israel Wolfe of Steubenville, front brakeman, jumped and received internal injuries.

GREATEST

Are the Battles Fought Silently Within Man's Own Self.

Christianity of Right Kind Means Warfare.

Excellent Sermon Preached by Rev. C. L. Alsopach.

Does Not Disguise the Truth to Shield Hypocrisy.

A very interesting and inspiring sermon was preached Sunday morning at the Grace Reformed church, by the pastor, Rev. C. L. Alsopach. His theme was: "Christianity Means War," and he said in part as follows:

"It is right that Christianity should inspire men with a militant spirit. The spirit of true Christianity, vital Christianity, Christianity that lives and conquers, is one of warfare.

"When Jesus Christ was upon this earth it meant something to forsake fishing nets and follow in His footsteps. So full is the New Testament of the emblems of war, as applied to the idea of vital Christianity, that the ancient church in its enthusiasm mistook the letter for the spirit and, actually lifted its banner and drew its sword and went into kingdoms with martial music and militant tread to make war.

"But the Christianity which Christ brought into the world meant a moral war. He, himself, declared that He 'came not to bring peace but a sword.' True, He was the Prince of Peace, but it was a peace that was to follow the triumphs of right over wrong, of good over evil, of truth over error. It was such a peace that should be gained when war was terminated with honor. We can imagine days of peace that are worse than war. Peace with dishonor is a thousand times worse than all the horrors of the bloody battle field. Christ said he came to set man at variance with his own household. He went into the temple and with His own hand scourged those sons of hell that there were desecrating his holy place with their robbery and fleecing of the poor. The program of Christianity was not the attainment of spiritual elation, but the working out of a world's redemption. Some Christians remind one of the boy who said, when he was converted, that he felt right soft. It was all he had and he never amounted to anything as a Christian. And so there are thousands of Christians who are just 'soft.' Soft everywhere you touch them. head, hands and heart. No bone, no muscle, but just 'soft.' Religious emotion is not the whole of Christian life. Peter was in ecstasy in the mount of transfiguration, he would rather stay

"Suffering and poverty, and chains and oppression must be eliminated before He shall reign 'King of Kings and Lord of Lords.'"

"The church of the twentieth century that will be successful and a power for God and His righteousness will be the one that buckles on the armor of the Lord Jesus Christ and goes out to fight everything that is wrong. And when once it realizes the vital force of Christ's life and teaching, and gets harnessed with the armor of the Lord, it will send an electric throb of power around the globe, and society will stand once more in the glorious light of the Son of Righteousness.

"Paul did not say when he came to the end of His journey, 'I have had a good time, most wonderful experience, shouted myself hoarse, seen mighty visions and dreamed many dreams.' No, no! He said, 'I have fought a good fight, I have kept the faith.'"

"Christianity to the end will mean a war upon the fierce powers that are without and, the evil nature from within, a battle with the world, and a battle with our own spirit. And sometimes these silent battles of the soul mean more than all the battles of the earth.

"It was a mighty victory that was won by our brave and dashing commodore, when he sailed into the harbor of Manila, and with batteries on one side of him, and the Spanish fleet in front of him, and sunken mines beneath him and naught but the blue there forever and experience that revealed glory of the Christ, than go down into the world again to suffer and struggle and fight, but Peter's request was denied him. He had to go down into the low valleys of human life and labor and suffer persecution and fight with the fierce powers of darkness before he achieved a martyr's death.

"And so today, if we are to realize the crowning glory of the Christian life, we must expect to make war on everything that is evil, and selfish and oppressive.

"Christ waged a fearful war upon society and the commercial system, and the politics of His day. He speaks against the leaders of the church and calls them hypocrites, serpents, a generation of vipers. He tells the rich young man that came to Him and said, 'I have kept the commandments, I came from a fine family, I have blue blood coursing in my veins, my family belongs to 'The Four Hundred,' as far back as history goes.' 'You belong to a system of commerce that is founded upon a survival of the strong at the expense of the weak. Go sell your possessions and give to the poor.

"He stood before the whole commercial system, and politics and society of His day and said: 'It is wrong, from the bottom to the top; it is wrong.' He antagonized the civilization of the century in which he lived. He does the same today. The Christian system is at war with everything that is unfair, dishonest, unclean and oppressive. Until weakness shall rule strength and love, not power, shall be the king, there is an eternal warfare to be waged.

"Suffering and poverty, and chains and oppression must be eliminated before He shall reign 'King of Kings and Lord of Lords.'"

"The church of the twentieth century that will be successful and a power for God and His righteousness will be the one that buckles on the armor of the Lord Jesus Christ and goes out to fight everything that is wrong. And when once it realizes the vital force of Christ's life and teaching, and gets harnessed with the armor of the Lord, it will send an electric throb of power around the globe, and society will stand once more in the glorious light of the Son of Righteousness.

heavens above him, immortalized his name and wrote it in blood upon the pages of the world's great history.

"But there is a battle eternal, when 'Greek meets Greek,' when on battle field you march down with this new life and spirit and drawn your sword to slay your own self, and lay that broken body upon the altar of the most High God, the battle in which man stands face to face with himself and fights to a finish saying, 'One shall be the master, one shall be the servant. Thou, O Christ, shall be the King of my life.'"

"Christianity means war, but the Christian should be courageous, remembering the words of the apostle, 'I can do all things through Christ that strengtheneth me.'"
